Summary

Enthusiastic and self-motivated individual passionate about language and helping others meet their goals. I am a native English speaker with nearly two years of experience teaching English as a second language. I also have a Bachelor's in English, and continue to pursue a passion for language by reading and writing creatively. In 2012 I won the Judge Felix J. Voorhies Award for creative writing. Over the past ten years I've worked in many different service capacities, including education, public service, and direct support service. I manage my own work schedule currently so self-motivation and punctuality are some of my strong points.
